

Jan Blackwell (Chair of Governors)

Mum to three children, Jan first became associated with North Primary School in 1991 when her eldest joined the nursery. An active member of the NSA she was Treasurer for several years. In 1996 she became a member of the governing body, and was appointed chair of governors in November 1998. She endeavours to attend all committee meetings in this role, and comes into school on a Wednesday morning to meet with the Head and spend time with the children mainly in the Reception classes. Her work in dentistry was originally with children, evolving into treating those with special needs. She has recently retired from a local dental practice where she also trained dental students as part of the University of Essex. For relaxation she enjoys reading, sewing, cooking, and to travel.

Juliette Maxam (Vice Chair of Governors)

Juliette was originally a parent governor and is now a local authority governor. Her three sons attended the school and one also went to the nursery. Juliette brings skills and experience from her career in journalism and PR and communications to the governing body. She is vice chair of the governing body, chair of the curriculum committee, and sits on the personnel and performance management committees. Although her children have long since left North School, she still lives in the community and is committed to the school's values and ethos. She is always happy to talk to parents.

Beth Dagge

Beth has a long association with North Primary School - her mum taught here for many years. Beth attended North as a child and her children are in Reception and Year 4. Her eldest child left Year 6 last year. As a parent, she has been struck by the friendly, community feel that emanates throughout the school and is keen to play a role in supporting this. She has sixteen years' experience as a teacher, working in both key stage one and Early Years. As a governor, she hopes to bring together her experiences as both a parent and a teacher to support the school and help it continue to prosper.

Sareta Fontaine

Since 2013, Sareta has been an active member of the North Community. Her two eldest children joined mid-year when her family moved to Colchester from London, and her youngest later joined Nursery.

Now, with only one child at North, Sareta became a Parent Governor dedicated to providing a supportive environment that allows students to reach their full potential before transitioning to the next level of academics.

In addition to her role at North, Sareta is a writer, content creator, founder of an online magazine, and podcaster. She advocates for genuine equality, diversity, and inclusion and has created a space for the underrepresented.

Sareta has a background in fashion and media and is keen to provide opportunities for students, graduates, and those who may want a change of direction or a creative escape from their 9-5's.

Ben Howard

Ben's day job involves event publicity and he is also DJ in a number of venues in the town. He became a parent governor so he could represent all sections of the school community and present a balanced viewpoint of parents on the governing body, to help all of the children get the best possible opportunities and chances from their time at North School. He is father of two children, the youngest is in Year 4 at the school. You'll find him doing the school run so feel free to speak to him in the playground!
